

Free Live Webcast February 13 with Tenzin Wangyal Rinpoche The Value of Enlightened Leadership

Join us from your computer on Saturday, February 13, 2016, 3–4:30 p.m. Eastern Time U.S. (New York time) for a free webcast on "The Value of Enlightened Leadership" to be given by Geshe Tenzin Wangyal Rinpoche. The webcast is the first in a new six-part series on "Transforming Your World Through Service."

We all want to help others—whether a father helps his child, a teacher helps her students or an activist strives toward world peace. The two most essential qualities to cultivate in service to others are wisdom and compassion. In this first webcast of a free six-month course, Geshe Tenzin Wangyal Rinpoche will guide a meditation practice and explain:

- The true meaning of wisdom and compassion.
- The important connection between self-realization and service.
- How to avoid pitfalls and mistakes when working to benefit others.

Open to all! Real-time translation will be offered in as many as 12 languages.

Register for February 13 webcast
Learn more about the course

Mark your calendar as well for the next webcast on March 12, 2016, 3–4:30 p.m. New York time. "Transforming Your World Through Service, Part 2: Cultivating Wisdom."